"A little known but crucial part of the story was that more than 20,000 American Indians fought on both sides of the conflict. Many thought their participation would guarantee their survival, protect their lands, and enhance their autonomy. Instead, for them the post-war period was tragic. A reunited nation turned its vision towards...

During the Civil War, did the Confederates have ironclads?Yes. The most famous was the CSS Virginia. She began life as the USS Merrimack and was berthed at the Gosport Navy Yard in Norfolk at the beginning of the Civil War. Secession led to an attack on the yard by U.S. forces, in which the Merrimack was burned almost to the poi...
